Townwide injunction to remain until June 2017

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsessexnews.co.uk

TRAVELLERS have been banned from setting up unauthorised encampments in Harlow until 2017 after a townwide injunction was granted by the High Court.

The hearing took place after Harlow Council and Essex County Council applied to make final the ground-breaking interim injunc-

Speaking after the court reached its decision yesterday (Wednesday), Harlow Council leader Jon Clempner said the town is a tolerant place butt did not want to see a repeat of the "persistent anti-social behaviour" associated with the illegal encampments.

"This injunction is about upholding the law, responding and listening to the concerns of residents and businesses, and protecting the town's vulnerable open spaces. It is not – and never has been – about persecuting any par-ticular group of people or their way of life," he said.

Cllr Clempner continued: "Months and months of hard work and building a strong case leading up to the interim injunction and the preparation and planning for the final injunction hearing has all paid off today."

The injunction bans 35 named persons from setting up unauthorised encampments on any land in Harlow.

It also protects 321 vulnerable it also protects 321 vulnerance sites across Harlow including parks and playgrounds, previ-ously occupied sites, highway verges, schools, cycle tracks and private land identified by Harlow Council and Essex County Coun-

The two councils joined forces to apply for a ban earlier this year after the town was blighted with 109 different unauthorised encampments between October 2013 and March 2015.

In the nine months the interim injunction has been in force five separate unauthorised encampments have set up on land covered by the injunction with each one moving out of Harlow within 24 hours. Breaching an injunction is a serious offence and could lead to a custodial sentence. Cllr Clempner added: "This injunction provides land with pro-tection for the next 18 months but this does not mean we sit back and do nothing, we have to be prepared now for when this injunction runs out. We won't hesitate to reapply for the injunction after this time if the problem returns.

"It is up to every council in the UK to address the lack of authorised pitches. In Harlow we are working to ensure that the town continues to meet its planning obligations in future and that the existing permanent public trav-eller sites are well managed and help meet future demand for

Two weeks to save The Square from closure.

Music venue will shut on December 31 unless alternative site is found

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

SUPPORTERS of The Square are pinning their hopes on a eleventh-hour deal to save the popular music venue from closure.

With the building in Fourth Avenue due to close at the end of the month, time is running out for a deal to be struck.

The closure was announced in April when land owner Circle Housing announced it was planning to build homes on the site. Despite meetings with Harlow Council and a campaign to save The Square, the venue's management team have been unable to find an alternative location.

"We have been trying to source a suitable new home," said Adam Smith of The SquareOne Partnership which runs the venue. "SquareOne has had a positive meeting with council chiefs and we are all aware we are working towards a very tight dead-

"We informed the council we would like to be able to share some good news with the town by December 31 at the latest."

Mr Smith added: "The venue is well known for nurturing local talent as new bands have the oppor-tunity to be play alongside bigger acts."

The council put forward several venues it owns as alternatives, including the former Harlow Advice Centre, the Latton Bush Centre, Jumpin' Jacks nightclub and a vacant building at Wych Elm. Another option put forward was for The Square to move into Harlow Playhouse to form a central entertainment hub, but the board of SquareOne turned down all the suggestions

Cllr Tony Durcan, portfolio holder for regeneration and enterprise, said: "For many different reasons The Square didn't find these suitable due to either location, size or the cost of conversion. I understand they are actively considering a potential venue in the town centre with a private land-

"We share concerns about the town losing such an important community facility and there is no doubt that The Square makes a tremendous contribution to Harlow and live music in the region."

During its 35-year history The Square has hosted performances by bands inclduing Coldplay, Muse and Feeder while also providing a home for stand-up comedy, debates and film screenings. Recently it was shortlisted by NME magazine for the prize of Best Small Venue and it also won the Lifetime Achievement Award at Harlow's Small Business Saturday

There must be a better wav

SIR, Les Coben's letter in the November 19 edition of the Star and your front page story about the cost of closing the welfare rights and advice service show what a mess Harlow Council is

. Why do residents have to use to the Freedom of Information Act to find out why our elected councillors allowed officers to close such an important resource? Many in Harlow have had to rely on HWRA to support and guide them through the minefield of regulation at a time when they are down on their luck and with nowhere else to HWRA had a huge amount of information related to local problems and expertise in the constant changes of legislation that residents now face on a daily basis.

I can find no mention in the minutes of council meetings that HWRA was in debt prior to the council making it public, so did senior officers make this decision on their own back? If so, are they now going to stand up and be accountable to local residents?

Which of the two political parties that are supposed to hold officers to account are going to hold up their hands and take responsibility for the debacle of an organisation like this having to go to court and then Harlow Council doing what it always does and bale out at the last minute so it does not have to explain itself or make operational changes?

There must be a better way to run our town. We just cannot keep going from crisis to crisis with paid officers being unaccountable. And it's time we knew where our councillors'

Mike Carr Rundells, Harlow

Learn lessons from closure

SIR, I suspect that not only the public but also most of our councillors will have been astonished to learn of the latest disclosures on the background to the closure of the advice centre as reported on the front page of the Star on December 3.

THIS week's photo was taken by Samuel

It would appear that rather than accepting a repayment in a couple of manageable instalments, it cost the council £600,000 to close down a nationally respected advice service, left a purpose-built centre empty for over two years, caused the redundancy of workers who had served the town well and left many of the most vulnerable of our residents with less support at a time of austerity when they needed it most.

One would have imagined that, following this disclosure, the council leader who was elected on a programme of openness and transparency would have lept at the opportunity to explore lessons which could prevent similar failures in the future

The Friends of Harlow Advice Centre invited him to a public meeting to examine the issues and to meet first with the steering committee so that it could be examined in a nonadversarial manner. I personally both wrote and emailed him to urge his attendance but in the event none of the communications were acknowledged, let alone secured

The meeting took place without him and asked the council to set up an urgent review, open to public contributions, so that lessons can be learned. We await the council's response.

The danger is that given its past performance, the council will even at this late stage seek to cover up the past and therefore learn nothing from it. This issue is just one symptom of a more fundamental problem which needs to be addressed if it is to regain any credibility before the next election.

Dennis Nadin Willowfield, Harlow

I despair for town's future

SIR, I attended two meetings last week, one on the debacle surrounding the closure of the HWRA centre and the other a discussion on the implications of the new housing and planning act.

Sadly they are not mutually exclusive; indeed, one fundamentally affects the other in so many ways.

The actual cost to the council in closing the HWRA was not £600,000 but nearer to £700,000. A much-respected but, more importantly, needed organisation was closed on the advice of officers who apparently knew the cost of everything and the value of nothing.

The discussion on the new housing and planning act outlined the Government's intention to restrict secure council tenancies for new applicants to at most five-year terms.

It will not affect me because I have been a tenant for 32 years but what does that say to voungsters wishing to move into council property, develop family roots and build future communities in this town? Sadly, it will mean them leaving this

A Conservative councillor justified this approach by stating the reason for this restriction was the need for social mobility. He then asked: "Who still lives in the home they were born in?"

You could not make it up.
These issues are linked because professional housing advice, housing benefits advice and general landlord and tenant advice will, after the introduction of this new act be needed even more over the coming years.

Carters Mead, Harlow

Don't let it fade away

SIR, What is going to happen at The Square come December 31? In the past weeks a series of farewell visits have taken place at the soon-to-be-demolished site but no-one has speculated about the venue's future – if it has one. Apparently the management have been in negotiations for a new town centre venue for some considerable time but as the deadline approaches they lack only one thing to seal the deal, a sum from Harlow Council which can be paid over as deposit on the new premises.

The council seems not to be in any hurry about this. One week succeeds another, autumn leaves turn red and fall, darkness sets in at 4pm yet the council sleeps.

The council seems to have forgotten that it has an obligation to the music venue known and loved by musicians and fans countrywide. The Square is part of British musical history; its many followers will not forgive it being allowed to fade away with the old year.

Come on Harlow Council, do the right thing.

Barbara Burge

Many thanks to store staff

SIR, I would like to thank the staff at Matalan in the town centre for the help and kindness shown to me when I had my purse stolen from my handbag recently.

They very kindly made me a cup of tea, gave me a lift home and made sure I was all right.

Let it be a lesson to all shoppers to make sure their bags are zipped up, especially at this time of year.

Gambling with taxpayer cash

SIR, At last week's meeting of Harlow Council's cabinet the Conservatives were accused of putting the cart before the horse with their questions about the new council-run company to take over from Kier Harlow.

The Labour-run administration has no business plan to show what the company will do and whether it can operate without a loss. It has no project plan to show what it needs to do to set up the new company and when these tasks should be completed.

Labour is gambling it can get things right by spending hundreds of thousands of taxpayer pounds on consultants. It is gambling it can deliver decent services to the council's tenants and the town's residents.

Cart before the horse? Labour has no stables for the horse and no road for the cart.

Clir Simon Carter (Conservative)

Penalised for saving hard

SIR, My parents worked, paid taxes and saved all their lives to provide for their old age and leave something for their children.

My father recently passed away at the age of 85 and my mother, who has dementia, is in a home for which the State takes thousands of pounds a year from her savings. How can that be fair when there are people who have not provided for their old age and the State pays their fees?

I guess it's best to go out and enioy life while your young and not worry about your old age. Maybe by the time you get old you will be too sick to worry where you are living or who is caring for you.

Head of Kier replacement in line for a £100k salary

THE local authority trading company (LATC) which will take over environmental and housing maintenance services from Kier Harlow could be headed up by a director on an annual salary of around £100,000.

Earlier this year Harlow Council decided to end its joint venture contract with Kier and take over the services by setting up an LATC.
The council is still in the early stages of planning how the service will run but it has been suggested the board of directors would be led by a senior council officer.

Speaking at a cabinet meeting on Thursday, council leader Jon Clempner said the standard salary of a senior officer is about £100,000 per annum.

The proposals would also see a councillor sitting on the board while it is likely a nonexecutive chairman would also be appointed on a likely salary of around £10,000.

"These decisions will be made by the sub-committee," said Cllr Clempner. "We are establishing the structure and principles and regular updates will be available. will be available.

"A transition plan will oversee the development of this and all proposals are at a stage of consultation."

The salary of the senior director and non-executive chairman are yet to be decided and the plans are still being finalised.

Cllr Andrew Johnson, leader of the opposition Conservative group, called for transparency in what kind of service the council would run.

"We would like to see an independent body established as we feel the current plans are ethically suspect" he said.

Conservative councillor Joel Charles added: "There is an awful lot of money involved and a large responsibility for these two individuals."

More than 250 toys were either donated or purchased from par-ticipating shops including Asda, Matalan, Sainsburys, Tesco Metro and Toys R Us. Gifts were also donated by the B&M store and Tesco at Church Langley.

A further 80 gifts were given by staff at Harlow Council as presents for children to give to their parents who are staying in refuges.

Jan Dalrymple, of Safer Places, aid: "As Christmas approaches, most of us look forward to spend-ing time with our family and friends and look forward to the our refuges.

"We have been overwhelmed this year by the kindness and generosity of those who have given presents and everyone at the council and in the shops who has helped to organise the appeal.

"We cannot tell you how grateful we are or just how much this kindness will mean to those we support.

"Sometimes amidst all the commercialism it is easy to wonder where the spirit of Christmas has gone, but I can tell you it is cer-tainly alive and well in Harlow."

Council chairman Tony Hall said: "Evidence shows domestic violence increases this time of year, meaning some children and families affected may not be able to celebrate Christmas at home.

"The donated gifts will help bring some festive cheer at a par-ticularly difficult time for the families affected.

"It can be the case that families staying in refuge accommodation have to move quickly leaving belongings and presents at home, so the kindness of residents will make a difference this Christ-

Jail for shop robber who threatened to 'blow off' staff's heads

A ROBBER who threatened to blow the heads of staff at a Har-low supermarket before stealing cash and goods has been jailed. Paul Rider, 54, of Copshall Close, Harlow, pleaded guilty at Chelmsford Crown Court to rob-bing the Co-op food store in Maunds Hatch on October 30.

A charge of possessing an imitation firearm, which Rider denied, was dropped and left on the court file. He claimed the weapon was just his fingers in his pocket.

Shouting

Richard Kelly, prosecuting, told the court Rider entered the shop, stepped up to the counter and asked for some goods before shouting at staff and threatening to "blow their heads off"

He stole £180 in cash, tobacco and two bottles of vodka before leaving the premises, but was later identified from CCTV images

The court heard that Rider had several previous convictions for robbery involving betting shops.

Emma Davenport, representing Rider, said in mitigation the defendant and argued the sen-tence he received should reflect that fact Rider was jailed for 40 months by judge Patrick O'Brien, who told him he was giving him credit for his guilty plea.

THE publication of the 2015 primary school performance tables made good reading for staff and parents of children at Hare Street Community Primary School which finished top of the class in Harlow.

Hare Street recorded a score of 97 per cent of Key Stage Two pupils achieving Level 4 in their SATs, a rise of two per cent on its figure for 2014.

The school, in Little Grove Field, also clocked the highest number of points among the town's schools.

PARK LIFE: One of the students lays paving stones in the Town Park

CONSTRUCTION students have been laying the foundations of their future careers by taking part in the £2.8m regeneration of Harlow Town Park.

During the past year large areas of the park have been land-scaped and refreshed. Pets' Corner recently reopened after undergoing a major refurbish-ment and Spurriers House is also scheduled for a facelift with the provision of new ground floor café.

As part of the regeneration programme students from Harlow College have been taking part on work placements to help with the improvements.
Tom Stokes, the college's assistant academy manager for con-struction, said: "It has been amazing to see how well our students have worked while on place-ment. This has played a massive part in the development of these young people and given them a real insight into working life.

In addition, students on the col-lege's Level 2 graphic design course have been working with the Town Park team to create new signage and designs

■ STUDENTS from Harlow College pushed themselves to the limit to become the first gradu-ates of a National Citizen Service course. The team of 16-17 year-olds took part in a number of activities including rock climbing, canoe-ing and archery as part of the Government-backed scheme which is designed to build confidence and experience.

Children enjoy VIP treatment during limo trip to theatre

star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A CONVOY of limousines wound its way through the streets of Harlow on Sunday to give a group of young VIPs a very special day out.

The cars were heading for the town centre where a crowd had gathered at the entrance to the Playhouse theatre to cheer their arrival.

The occasion was the annual panto trip organised by funeral directors Daniel Robinson & Sons for children who, during the past year, have had a tough time as a result of a family bereavement or Staff wearing fancy dress accompanied the youngsters and members of their families in the company's fleet of limos which had been decorated for the journey from the Latton Bush Centre.

Raising money to support Richard's paralympic dream

STUDENTS at the former school of Paralympic hopeful Richard Chiassaro are helping to raise funds for him to buy a new custom-built race chair after his previous one was vandalised.

Youngsters at Mark Hall Academy in First Avenue, Harlow, will be holding a Christmas jumper day today (Thursday) and donating all funds raised to the Crowdfunder campaign which was started after Richard's chair was wrecked.

Pupils and staff are being encouraged to wear festive jumpers in exchange for a donation and they have asked staff at nearby Mark Hall Sports Centre to join

More than £2,000 of the £8,000 required for the new chair has already been raised since Richard discovered the damage when he arrived for training last Monday.

The wheel frame and steering mechanism of the chair were damaged, all three wheels were buckled and the mudguards were bent.

Each racing chair is handmade and custom fit to the athlete, so it will be difficult to get a replacement chair

Richard, who has spina bifida, has been training hard and is hoping to secure a place in Great Britain's team for next year's Paralympics in Rio.

Mark Hall Academy principal Corinne
Franceschi said: "We were saddened to hear that Richard's chair had been van-dalised and we are all too happy to help a former pupil.

"At Mark Hall we are a family and we support one another. We are encouraging all of our pupils and staff to put on their most festive knitwear and raise as much as possible for Richard's new chair.

"We will be planning various events throughout the year to support Richard with his fundraising."

Appy Christmas for cab customers

HARLOW cab firm ABC Cars has launched an app to give its customers convenience as well as competitive prices.

It has spent six months developing the app in their bid to compete with cab booking service Uber and similar app-based technology services.

The company hope the extra way to book will be a welcome add-on for its customerss and an incentive to a new generation of passngers who will now be able to book a taxi within seconds at the click of button.

After making the booking they will be able to track it in real time, and watch the

The commission has been set up by the London-Stansted-Cambridge Consorti-um, a partnership of public and private organisations along the M11/A10 corridors.

The task of the commission, which will be chaired by Harvey McGrath, will be to provide clear guidance on how central and regional governments can improve transport, housing stock and other infrastructure.

Barriers

Despite recent success and growth, the LSCC believes the region still faces barriers to expansion and continued success, including rail and road infra-structure which is struggling to cope with existing demand and the problems faced by tech nology and service firms struggling to recruit skilled workers

Mr McGrath, former chairman of Prudential and Man Group plc said: "The most successful regional economies in the world have both scale and density and extend beyond the boundaries of one

"Here we have two great cities – London and Cambridge – and we have a transport infrastructure with huge potential, but there are problems. The rail link to Stansted Airport in particular is inadequate and firms are frustrated by staffing issues.

"Ideas, services and products that are invented here are used throughout the world. For the UK to succeed in the global economy the corridor needs to succeed.'

Cllr Kevin Bentley, deputy leader of ssex County Council, said: "We hope the commission will make a comelling case for investment in our infrastructure to support smart growth, demonstrating the return on investment for UK Plc.'

Andrew Harrison, managing director of Stansted Airport. added: "The airport is undergoing a period of rapid growth and major capital investment, increasing our global connectivity and playing our part in supporting our international economy.

"We look forward to the commission setting out a strong and compelling economic vision for the region and making a powerful case for inward investment.

The commission will undertake a high quality research programme and host four inquiry events between now and the summer of 2016.

Information on contacting the Council and Waste and Recycling Collections

We need your help to reduce recycling contamination. Contamination happens when items which cannot be recycled are put in your recycling bin or container.

Keep your bin happy and help us avoid contamination. Follow our guide below on what you can recycle. Unfortunately, we will not be able to empty your bin if it is contaminated. If in doubt always check www.harlow.gov.uk/recycling

Food waste tip:

Christmas means extra people and extra food; for tips to help you make the most of the food you buy visit www.lovefoodhatewaste.com

Please remember to only put food waste in newspaper or use compostable liners showing this logo.

Extra non-recycling over Christmas...

We will collect one extra bag of nonrecycling per household on the first nonrecycling collection after Christmas Day. Extra food waste can be placed in compostable liners on top of your caddy or in a cardboard box.

Extra recycling should be put out as normal visit: www.harlow.gov.uk/recycling

Good year for Harlow and more will follow

IT has been a good year for Harlow.

The Government has made our town a number one priority with a brand new Public Health Science laboratory, bringing investment of up to £500m and thousands of jobs while our new Enterprise Zone is full steam ahead with companies like Arrow Electronics and Raytheon spending millions to build new sites.

Sir Charles Kao University Technical College is achieving huge success and will provide the much-needed chills for young needed skills for young people to work in our new laboratory and Enterprise Zone. Similarly, all our secondary schools are achieving results that are improving year by year. We should all be very proud of the talented young people in our town.

Apprenticeships

Meanwhile, jobs, apprenticeships and appresenteesings and businesses are coming back to Harlow. The number of claimants for Jobseekers Allowance has gone down by over 383 in the past year and the number of the number of apprenticeships has gone up by 780.

The battle on cost of fuel continues but it's good to see that petrol and diesel prices are falling.

I am doing everything possible to support and protect our NHS and I am pleased Health Secretary Jeremy Hunt has agreed to meet with me and the chief executive of Princess Alexandra Hospital so that we can do everything possible to obtain the investment and assistance that the hospital

I have always encouraged the Government to help out hard-working families in Harlow and provide much needed support for pensioners. That's why I was pensioners. That's why I was pleased when George Osborne amounced that the state pension will rise by £3.35 to £119.30 per week, which is the biggest real term rise in the basic state pension in 15

The Chancellor has also confirmed that there will be tax-free childcare for working parents. From early 2017, the Government will contribute 20 per cent of childcare costs through an online childcare account.

As a Government we are also doubling the housing budget to build 400,000 new affordable homes in Britain over the next decade. I will continue to do all that

Permission granted for 195 new homes

Green light for second phase on farmland near Gilden Way

AN extra 195 houses will now be built on land north of Gilden Way after Harlow Council granted permission for the second phase of work to start. The controversial proposals ere rubberstamped by the authority's development management committee at a meeting last Wednesday.

In total, 1,200 homes will be built on farmland bordering Old Harlow, which objectors say will add to the traffic congestion on Gilden Way.

An outline application for the full scheme was thrown out by the Labour-run council in 2012 but the decision was overturned by the former Secretary of State for local government, Eric Pickles MP.

Cllr Jean Clark said: "There is a lot of opposition to this new devel-opment, but I don't think we can do anything about that now.

"I'm working on that basis to reluctantly accept the fact that the development is going to take place." Planning committee chairman,

Cllr Phil Waite added: "If this body had the choice we would not be voting the way the (former) secretary of state has dictated

. Cllr Clark also raised opposition to the description of the proposed buildings as 'rural' while councillors argued the planned sports pavilion would be too far from the playing fields.

In a previous discussion the committee had raised concerns about lack of car parking around the area but investigating Council Officer Andrew Jarratt said this would not be a problem.

"The county council has not raised any concerns about parking," he said. "But they (County Hall) did advise some parking

Basi, the world's second oldest Giant Panda, was given a crown to wear as she tucked into her very own special birthday cake and waved to her fans who visited her at the Fuzhou Giant Panda Research Centre

Pandas live on a diet of bamboo shoots and so her cake was made from her favourite foods of crushed up bamboo leaves, mashed apples and radishes.

As well as waving at visitors, Basi can also ride a bicycle, shoot basketball hoops and lift weights which isn't bad for a panda aged 35 - the equivalent of 140 in

Daughter chooses a winner for theatre company

Review: Rapunzel by Harlow Theatre Company

AUDIENCES are invited to let down their hair in a land far far away for this year's Christmas play at Old Harlow's Victoria Hall Theatre.

Rapunzel is the year-end climax for Harlow Theatre Company who have gathered a promising first-time writer/director and great young cast.

The Grimm brother's classic fairytale has come back in fashion lately through the Disney adaptation Tangled.

But the more conventional plot with wonderful set pieces, hilarious one-liners and nicely adapted songs makes for a fresh and exciting watch for all

Director and writer Martin Colton chose the play at the request of his seven-year-old daughter and the result is a testament to his creative talent.

The scene is set with the protagonist eternally confined to a high tower by cruel overlord witch Gothel, who poses as a mother figure.

Beautiful but unworldly Rapunzel, who is now 23, has never met a man and her only friend is her cat Pandora, who is also the play's narrator.

Rapunzel thinks her dreams have come true when, with the help of his long-suffering aide Brian, the charming Prince Percy climbs into her tower,

The pair immediately bond over a catchy song and are soon enough finishing each-other's

However, their romance is short-lived as Gothel banishes Rapunzel to the Land of Eternal Winter and blinds Prince Percy by throwing him from the tower.

Meanwhile Gothel is not content to bring misery to just the life of Rapunzel and orders her goblin minions to capture Pandora which makes for an intriguing sub-plot.

The drama then really begins as Prince Percy sets

But the trio find danger is never far away with Gothel able to spy on their progress with the help of her helper goblins who are determined to make their lives a misery.

All three must face their fears through a series of quests and challenges as they travel through a world of magic and mystery.

The journey that follows offers a well-paced roller coaster ride for younger viewers while adults may appreciate the comic relief offered by the banter of Prince Percy and Brian.

Lisa Gould, who was picked out for the role by Martin, shines as Rapunzel providing a mixture of steel and grace.

Dolleen Howlett is also good fun as she nails a classic villainous witch in playing the anti-hero

But the star is often Summer Mawdsley who steals many a scene in her dynamic turn as Pandora. Summer proves a cat who can act, dance and sing as she gracefully controls the stage.

Rapunzel is everything a Christmas production should be and credit should be made to the director and young cast for providing such a fun-filled evening's entertainment.

Rapunzel is at the Victoria Hall Theatre from December 17-27 but tickets are now only available on December 17 and December 19.

Losers are hoping for a winning Christmas

FTER years of frustration and false-starts bubble-gum punk rockers Loser Token are hoping the season of giving can be a fresh start.

Since founding in 2008, the quartet from Harlow have had flashes of success, but their progress has been plagued by break-ups, line-up changes and general bad luck.

Re-launching a career through a Christmas single is an unconventional move, but frontman Sam Russell is confident it will pay off.

"We wanted to do something fun and a bit silly," said 29-year-old Sam about their new release Have an Awesome Christmas.

"With the X Factor single getting to No1 most years, I feel Christmas music has gone stale.

"There has not been a good Christmas song for some time and I feel it is something no one really does

"This song is something of a throwback to the golden era of Christmas songs.

"My favourite is I Wish It Could Be Christmas Every Day and that is definitely an influence on our single.' With a catchy hook and big chorus,

Have an Awesome Christmas is an unashamedly bold festive number reminiscent of the days of Wizzard, Slade and Shakin' Stevens.

The single is released online this week and Sam hopes it can be a springboard to a happy new year.

"We are looking at April as the time to be sorting stuff out and we hope to have things confirmed then as to what we're doing about touring.

"We're hoping to be playing all over the place and be recording some new music."

Loser Token formed in 2008 as an upbeat band with a pop-rock sound fitting the mood of the time.

They released an EP in 2010 to some acclaim and were touted as a name to watch – however, following it up has been tough work.

Throughout their years in the wilderness the band have always maintained a strong Harlow presence, having played at the town's LinkFest and soon-to-close The Square many

"We did an EP in 2010 and it was shortly after that we split-up," said

"It has been hard to have any consistency and our recent single. Happy Feeling, has been in the works for five years, but we only finally released it a few weeks ago.

"We're very happy with the Christmas single and hopefully it can lead to more good things to follow

Full-on goodbye party with the PAPA of electro circus rock

T might get loud, wild and colourful when a band like no other play for the final time at The Square in Harlow.

The Fourth Avenue venue has welcomed a host of star names for the Back to Square One series, but there will be few gigs more memorable than when Papa Shango take to the stage.

Led by the charismatic Rob Scatchard, aka Papa Rob who dresses up as a voodoo priest on stage, Shango have been thrilling audiences for years with their self-styled electro circus rock.

It has been a good year for the band, perhaps more accurately described as a squad, with a new album and plenty of crazy shows. "We have been really busy," said Rob.

"We released our second album Manservant and played Boomtown festival. The album was released independently and was really well received.

"The live shows have been getting more and more popular and we hope to play at Standon Calling next year.'

Cramming a full line-up nearing 20 members, mostly from Harlow and Bishop's Stortford, into a small venue can be a challenge, but Shango have always adopted a 'the more the merrier' approach.

Their gig at The Square could make for a claustrophobic experience, but Rob says they are determined to go hard for one last spectacle at the

"On a good day there is around 17 of us," said Rob of the band's entourage. $\,$

"More often than not though, there will be around 10 of us. There are six members who I would say were the essential core members and the rest would be dancers and extra singers.

"We sometimes have to turn down venues because we have so many members, but The Square will be okay to accommodate.

"We all want to say goodbye to it."

He added: "We have been a band always very much about the stage shows. I have been pleased with the feedback from the album and which we've sold online and at the shows.

"However, the music is one thing - but the band is more than that and it really comes alive when we are performing."

Manservant is filled with some typically kooky song themes such as Buoys Ahoy and Too Sick to

Makin' Steps working again for the community

Review: Charlie's Chocolate Emporium

SOME say you can never have too much chocolate. Well, that's certainly the case when it's in the hands of Harlow's Makin' Steps.

This well-established and renowned performing arts company treated audiences to Charlie's Chocolate Emporium at their Potter Street base last weekend and it was a delight.

Written and directed by Liz Evans, the familiar story centres on Willy Wonka's Chocolate Factory. Wonka (Dan Middleton) is now a very old man and Charlie (Doug Thomas) is in search of an heir apparent.

Using that trusty method of hiding Golden Tickets in Wonka bars the first four lucky winners. Helga, Henrique, Amber and Sho are the offspring of the four children whose chocolate tour came to an untimely end in the original story.

A flashback is provided, reminding us how it all began, and Sophie McHale, Bayley Summerfield, Kayleigh Woods and Shannon McQuillan are worthy of an early plaudit for their portrayal of Charlie's bedridden grandparents.

Their singing in character was both comical and convincing, unlike their ill-fitting and possibly unnecessary hair pieces.

Not for the first time Makin' Steps made great use of filmed story to enhance the narrative and keep things flowing during the first half scene and

The Spade family are introduced as the down-at-heel family, the modern day equivalents of the erstwhile Buckets, and Sophie Spade's (Jaime Allen) fate is sealed when she wins the last Golden

With the scene set in the first half, the second half of the show flew past at a cracking pace as each of the spoiled and over-indulged children met their downfall. Some lines and scenes were predictable but "Amber you've turned amber" – I didn't see that coming. Makin' Steps Formation Dancers have become a brand within a brand and every time they took to the stage the whole place

I had to rely upon my daughter to inform me that the Chocolate Emporium song was set to the Magic Roundabout music but there was no mistaking the Madonna makeover as the highly talented Brooke Turnstill delivered the words "Like a surgeon – cutting for the very first time"

Margaret Wright's thank you's to the supportive and appreciative audience, the performers, those helping backstage and front of house (mums and dads giving up their time) at the end of this weekend of "pure imagination" reminded us that Makin' Steps are a company of the community, by the community and for the community and Harlow is lucky to have them.

whirlwind of frenzied hype.

Miraculously, plot details have remained under a veil of secrecy since the film began shooting in April 2014, and Abrams has masterminded a refreshingly restrained marketing campaign that has propelled ardent fans on social media to the brink of meltdown with each tantalising behind-the-scenes photograph or trailer.

Han Solo (Harrison Ford), Luke Skywalker (Mark Hamill) and his sister Leia (Carrie Fisher) - now referred to as General Organa bear the deep emotional scars of their encounters with the dark side of the Force, which is led by Supreme Leader Snoke (Andy Serkis) and his dangerous and unpredictable protege, Kylo Ren (Adam Driver).

This battle royale brings together new heroes and villains including self-sufficient scavenger Rey (Daisy Ridley) from the desert planet Jakku, First Order stormtrooper Finn (John Boyega) who possesses an important artefact, and fearless Resistance X-wing pilot Poe Dameron (Oscar Isaac).

Their fates entwine with pirate and canteen owner Maz Kanata (Lupita Nyong'o), ruthless First Order base leader General Hux (Domhnall Gleeson) and beloved sidekicks Chewbacca (Peter Mayhew), C-3PO (Anthony Daniels) and R2-D2 (Kenny Baker).

PATHFINDER

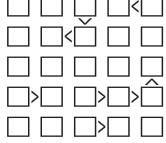

Hard

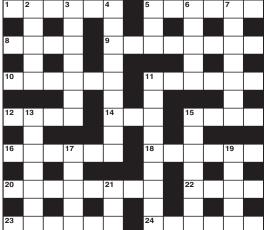

For Killer Sudoku, the normal rules of Sudoku apply. However, in addition, the digits in each inner shape (marked by dotted lines) must add up to the number in the top corner of the shape.

Each line across and down is to be filled with the numbers $1\ \text{to}\ 5$. The same number cannot occur more than once in any line. Your only clues are the numbers given and whether a number is greater than (>) or smaller than (<) the adjacent number.

Leopards ready for the Knights shade cup clash with rivals Hawks fight before Christmas

Big Cats seeking to wrap up points against Warriors

LEVETT Essex Leopards will look to go into Christmas with a win under their belt when they host Westminster Warriors at the Brentwood Centre on Sunday

The two sides will know plenty about each other having already met twice this season, with both games proving to be thrillers.

The Warriors, who include former England/ GB internationals Mike Martin and Julius Joseph in their line-up, took the National Trophy points at Harlow in September with a 68-64 win, and it was even closer at Brent-wood the following month when Leopards progressed to the National Cup quarter-final with a 70-69 victory.

After a great start to the season that saw them top the southern section of the Trophy, an injury to key man Martin has hit the London side hard and they are sur-prisingly bottom of the table with a 1-9 record.

The Big Cats will look to make a good start against the Warriors. having come up just short after poor openings in their double-header in the North East this Leopards' long trip to Middlesbrough ended in disappointment on Saturday as they went down 82-76 against Tees Valley Mohawks.

Terrible

The Big Cats outscored the home side 29-20 in the final quarter, but after a terrible second period they had given themselves too much to do.

Mohawks had gone into the game without a win to their name. but the signing of American Jerrod Hendricks gave them a lift, and Leopards found him and fel-low guard Ryan Nelson difficult to stop as the pair finished with 21

Justin Hitchman returned to his early-season form to lead the Leopards with 17 points and six rebounds, hitting a perfect nine-from-nine at the foul line.

Ladi Brown also finished with 17 points, adding four boards, while Courtney van Beest contributed ten points and six rebounds.

Three pointers proved to be the Big Cats' Achilles heel as they converted only 18 per cent of their shots from outside the arc, while Mohawks managed 35 per cent, including some big shots which kept the visitors' fightback at bay.

The fourth-period comeback saw Hitchman get his side within ive points with 27 seconds emaining before the hosts wrapped up their first win of the season at the foul line.

Ogunjimi's team again started slowly the following day as they trailed 28-17 at the first break and eventually went down 86-83 at 'eam Northumbria.

Will Ashby led the way with a game-high 24 points, while Brown finished with 16 points and eight rebounds

The lead was trimmed to 48-38 at half-time, but although a Brown three helped cut the deficit to five after a minute of the second half, the home side regained control to Five straight Ashby points cut that lead to eight points after two fourth-period minutes but Leopards' chances appeared over as four Jack Wilson points made it a 17-point game with five minutes remaining.

But Leopards never go quietly, and Van Beest launched a 12-0 run capped by a pair of Albert Margai free-throws to cut the deficit to five points with 1min 07sec on the

Lewis Champion ended the run with a pair of free-throws only to Margai hit a trey to make it a four-point game with only 30 seconds remaining

Randolph split a pair at the foul line for the hosts before Brown drained a three to cut the lead to two with ten seconds left, only to see Jamie Haves called for a questionable offensive foul after the Big Cats' had forced a turnover, and the home side sealed the win at the foul line.

Herts County Cup, third round (round robin) North Herts Knights Harlow Hawks 55

THE Hawks travelled to Baldock to face off against experienced rivals, the North Herts Knights.

Looking to avenge the league loss at home to the Knights, the Hawks opened with a score from Tom White and some excellent early defence was on display in the first quarter.

The Knights, however, asserted dominance in the opening minutes with a 13-0 run. It took a three-pointer from Jimmy Fuhrmann to put a halt to the run.

At the end of the first quarter, the Hawks trailed 24-12.
The teams traded baskets for a number of minutes with the Hawks' reserve unit providing fresh sense of purpose and energy. Hawks' U18 guard Jack Hawkins provided a much needed spark off the bench in the second quarter, hitting two three-pointers and finishing off a number of tricky lay-ups.

Problems

However, the Knights, sporting some tall players inside, created match up problems for the Hawks on defence.

This enabled the Knights to maintain their lead through until half-time as the hosts led

The Hawks finally began to capitalise on their efforts in the third quarter, opening the period with a 10-2 run.

Rimas Norkelieunas was able to convert two tough opportunities while also drawing fouls on the Knights forwards.

Hawkins and fellow U18 Josh Haddow once again proved their abilities with some excellent defence and rebounding.

It was a three-pointer from Norkelieunas that reduced the lead to six.

The score at the end of the

In the fourth quarter, the Hawks' zone defence was finally unravelled by some excellent long-range shooting from the

Trial joy for kids at Leyton Orient

CHILDREN from within the Burnt Mill Co-operative Academy Trust (BMAT) primary schools took part in an U11s' five-a-side cup tournament at Leyton Orient FC.

Year 6 boys from Freshwaters, Cooks Spinney and Roydon formed a BMAT team for the competition, having demonstrated their talent during an inter-school football event at Burnt Mill Academy.

The team of seven – who play for Harlow Town FC and Risden Wood - were among 20 schools to compete at Leyton Orient's astroturf training pitch.

After coming second in the tournament, Charlie Donovan (Cooks Spinney) Freddie Rozee (Cooks Spinney), Ezra Fields

(Roydon), Tyler Finnecy (Roydon), Tyler Finitely (Freshwaters), Luke Draper (Cooks Spinney), Kade Wright (Roydon) and Ronnie Ponton (Freshwaters) were invited to take part in an an open trial at the football club.

While the whole team was good enough to earn places at weekly training with the club, Tyler was given a position at the Academy training sessions.

Phil Dawes, sports coordinator for BMAT primaries said: "This tournament demonstrates what we are trying to achieve in the Trust; to compete at the highest level possible, not just in Harlow and

"We are hoping to repeat this kind of event in other sports to enable our children to set their sights high and give them memorable experiences.

"By combining the strengths of all of our primaries, the Trust gives our young children opportunities to achieve more than they thought possible. "Not only did this day give those boys, along with their families, a day they won't forget, it also shows them what other possibilities are out there if they work hard and believe in themselves.

"We wish the boys every success at their training sessions with Leyton Orient and look forward to hearing about their

'Artificial pitch | would enable play every day at top facility'

RAMS chiefs are hopeful that the club can tap into £50m of funding earmarked by the RFU for artificial pitches.

The new complex at Latton
Farm near Second Avenue will include six pitches, including three which will be floodlit.

Harlow Rugby Club had requested funding from the RFU a year ago for an artificial pitch but at this time there was no money available

Former Rams first team player Alan Brooking, who is chairman of the project which is overseeing the move to a new facility, said the club had already held further talks with the Essex

Now the sport's national association chiefs have specifically earmarked a huge sum of cash for artificial pitches, he hopes the club could win a grant to install one.

An artificial pitch would mean the club can use, play and train on the surface five days a week throughout the winter months

Brooking said: "We have already had discussions with the RFU about artificial pitches. At the time there was no money in the budget but with this announcement we have already made contact with Essex RFU. and we will be trying very hard to get an artificial pitch.

"I'm not talking about an all-weather pitch, this will be a first team playing pitch. It might not be to the standards of Saracens but it's going to be a pretty good imitation.

Develop

"That would mean we could play rugby ten hours a day five days a week if we wanted to. We are looking to develop the club in other ways."

Brooking is excited by the fact that the new facility will mean some of the youth teams playing rugby on a Friday night under "The thought of our U13s playing under floodlights on a Friday night, that's a dream for a 13-year-old. It doesn't matter whether it's football or rugby or whatever sport, to come and play on a first team pitch under floodlights it's going to be heaven. It gives us all these opportunities.

"And it's about everybody in Harlow, and everybody in West Essex who wants to play rugby It will be one of the best in Essex."

Brooking is also excited at how Harlow's schools can use the facility for tournaments.

"Wo need excess facility."

"We need space for school tournaments. We will have enough space to play in a tournament after six o'clock," he explained. "We want to play other forms or rugby as well. There are people who don't want to get involved with the physical side. There's big moves in rugby to play far more touch or tag rugby for all age groups from U6 right the way up to vets.

"That's something we want to start next summer and carry it on into the next year. The aim is that when people stop playing competitive rugby, they can still carry on and still pass a ball around, still meet their mates and have a drink in the bar afterwards.

"We really want to expand all sorts of rugby, more than the 15-a-side rugby that you see every week."

HARLOW Rugby Club are hopeful that other sports clubs can use their new complex, which should be completed in December 2016.

Running or cycling clubs could tap into the top medical expertise which will be available at the new ground near Second Avenue. Work could begin on the site as early as March if Harlow Council approve a revised application for the scheme.

The clubhouse work could begin in June and be completed in December.

The six pitches, three under floodlights, will also be completed at this time, if the weather con-ditions are right for grass to grow

Project chairman Alan Brooking believes the facility can be a hub for the whole community.

We want to get other sports clubs involved in the club. We want to be a centre for a running club, or a cycling club," he said.

Medical

"We're not going to be a centre for a football club, but a club that need a facility, can have that medical facility that we will have got, we will have quite advanced medical facilities when we are done. "We want to try to become a centre for sport and a centre for the community. That's a very large part of our remit moving forward, so the don't sit there empty.

"We will provide facilities for not-forprofit companies. We have spoken to some clubs already and we will continue to have those conversations. It's got to be used during the working day. "We don't want to compete with the GPCA which does a brilliant job, but there are quite a lot of other sports in Harlow that need a home, that are not football or hockey, and they need a base.

"It should give the club a really good platform to move they are doing."

'We are putting in irrigation, if we have a dry season we will still be irrigated. If we get a lot of rain – fantastic. If we get a year like we have had now when grass is growing into November, then absolutely brilliant.

"The club is spending a lot of money to mitigate any circumstances [where it will be ready later than February 2017]. Everything is on track.

"The first thing we need to do is scrape off the top soil to build the pitches. That really has to be done before we do anything else, because it's the biggest part of the But there will be no pressure for the club to quit their old ground in Elizabeth Way – they could even be using both sites up until April 2017 when the rugby season ends. "We will get to a point where Keir will come to us and say the facilities are ready," Brooking said. "It maybe that the club-house is ready but the pitches need a couple of more months, but then we don't need to leave here for three months

The club will hold an open day next spring so everyone in Harlow and beyond can see exactly what they are doing.

They also have started discussions to organise for a couple of former England internationals to officially open the new complex. "There will be a major opening. We can't say who the player is going to be, but we are having conversations already. It's a bit too early but we would love to get a past England player, maybe two really good names.

"The club has to be heavily involved in that. I would like to see two England internationals and I would like to see our youngest player and our oldest player all involved in it."

Women's game will move on at new site

ALAN BROOKING says the new rugby club site will be a huge shot in the arm for the sport in Harlow, particularly for the women's game.

The former first team player, who is chairman of the stadium project, knows the club needs to

"It's about giving them an opportunity and we have to give them better facilities than we do now," he said.

The new site will also cater for former players who have quit the sport because of the physical demands on the body. Touch and tag rugby will be available to allow veterans to play their favourite game still – and keep fit.

Four companies, all experts in building leisure facilities, are hattling it out to win the tender to build the complex.

The Rams are not naming those who have bid to build the facility at this stage, but all have assured they can complete the work by February 2017. "We started off with 11 companies, we are now down to four. Every single one has said they can meet that plan timescale," said Brooking.

"The main contractor will be responsible for most of the work and then a specialist will come in to do the pitches. The pitches are the most important part. It's essential the pitches are done properly," Brooking explained.

"Everyone says they don't see a problem with timescales. "We then have the four pitch people, and they are all on the RFU-approved list. We won't take anyone who's not on that list

Promoted Penguins back in the Premier

HARLOW Penguins were crowned Arena National Swimming League Division One champions on Saturday night following a tense battle at Barking & Dagenham's Becontree pool.

Kirsty Vears set the standard for the night in the first event. the women's 200m individual medley (IM), setting a personal best (PB) time of 2min 34.89sec. Karl Batorski dominated the men's 200m IM from the start and claimed Penguins' first win of the night in a time of 2:09.15.

The club's junior team won nine of their 12 events.

The boys squad of Max McAuliffe, Ben Stringer, Ethan Peirce and Alessandro Rioda won both the medley and freestyle relays, the latter by a massive ten-second margin. In the individual events, Alessandro Rioda continued his total dominance of the 50m freestyle (29.91) and 50m butterfly (33.32) events, winning

After a short illness, Max McAuliffe returned to the team and won the 50m backstroke (37.75). Max also claimed second place in the 50m breaststroke

The girls squad of Olivia Tarallo, Maisy Hills, Emma Guerrati and Carys Brealey were also in great form, again winning both relays.

Carvs matched Alessandro's feat of winning both the freestyle (31.42) and 50m butterfly (34.01). In the 13/U 100m freestyle event, Carys won in a PB of 63.37.

Maisy Hills claimed second in the $11/\tilde{U}$ 50m breaststroke in a PB of 42.77.

Outstanding

The men's open medley relay squad of Tom Stevens, Karl Batorski, Jamie McLaughlin and Mason Arnold claimed victory in an outstanding race in a time of 1:47.36, a season's best for the

In the 6x50m squadron relay. Jamie McLaughlin (24.61), Tom Stevens (25.37), Mason Arnold (24.60), Hayden Thomas (25.54) and Karl Batorski (23.02) were joined by new squad member Greg Barton (25.46) to take second behind home team Barking & Dagenham.
The 13/U boys team of Silvester Havrillay, Callum Wright, Keir Rees and Alessandro Rioda (swimming up an age group), were second in both the medley and freestyle relays.

Callum Wright confirmed his outstanding promise in the 100m breaststroke. He clocked 1:18.06 for second and set a PB. The girls 15/U squad 4x50m medlev relay team of Megan Cook (backstroke, 33.06), Olivya Holleyman (breaststroke, 36.87), Celeste Andrew (butterfly, 31.55) and Emily Hills (freestyle, 29.10) claimed second place, as did Meg Wickham in the 15/U 100m breaststroke (1:17.45).

Penguins finished just four points behind Barking & Dagenham to finish second, enough points to win the Division One title.

On clinching promotion, head coach Martin Stringer said: "This will be the Club's first time in the Premier League since 2007 when the old town pool was closed and virtually destroyed the club overnight.

"The achievement of the swimmers is huge and they are now competing regularly at the highest level."

Hando's fighters see off best of UK

Students' medal feast at national champs

STUDENTS at Old Harlow-based Hando Ju Jitsu Club were hugely successful in the UKMAGB/ Jikishin Ju Jitsu Association National Championships held at Tilbury Docks.

Competitors came from all over the UK, including Wiltshire, Cornwall, Lincolnshire, West Sussex, Essex and London.

A team of 16 from the club, based at Mark Hall Sportscentre, joined more than 450 competitors at the event.

They won an incredible 15 medals: five gold, seven silver and three bronze, in almost every category, including ground fighting, sparring, open hand kata, weapons kata and random attacks.

The club instructors -Walker, a 5th dan, and Jackie Walker, a 4th dan – are the husband and wife team who run the club, which also has a base at Ongar Leisure Centre in Chipping Ongar.

Earl Walker, the head instructor, said: "We are immensely proud of the whole team, who worked so hard and dedicated themselves to training for the competition.

"The hard work was justly rewarded, and all of the individuals performed well on the day."

Jason Plume was the only adult competitor, and he also medalled in the random attacks category at blue/purple belt.

The medal winners were: Alfie Jenkins silver junior 30-35kg sparring; Archie Goodger silver sparing, Archie Goodger Silver junior 30-35kg ground-fighting; Ben Mays gold junior 30-35kg ground-fighting; George Burnett silver junior 45-55kg ground-fight-

Dadson spat over but boss wants more from players

HAWKS boss Danny Chapman has played down a bust-up with striker and top scorer Junior Dadson during Saturday's 2-2 draw at Great Wakering Rovers

Dadson reacted angrily after being substituted, but Chapman was unhappy with the player's performance and felt he was at fault for Wakering's first goal.

The Harlow Town boss has also said that Dadson and several other players are underperforming and is looking for a response on Saturday at home to Maldon & Tiptree in Ryman

"Junior switched off for their goal and then it nearly happened again. It wasn't Junior's day," said Chapman.

LIKE a phoenix from the flames Harlow Town FC has risen from the brink of destruction in the space of five years.

When Tom Cunningham and John Barnett took over in February 2010, the club were on the verge of folding amid huge debts.

Five years on, the club is thriving and has finally ended the CVA (compulsory voluntary agreement) to pay off its debtors, the last piece in the jigsaw as the club looks to a bright and financially

Cunningham knows it's a feather in the cap that the Hawks have removed the CVA, and he is justifiably proud that the Essex club has removed the cloud of financial meltdown.

He said: "The past is the past. The most important thing is what this says – that we have paid off our creditors.

"To do this in this timescale shows where the club is now."

But it was a very different story when Barnett and Cunningham bought the club from Carol Both-

During that difficult season, they were already near the bottom and it looked like the Hawks would end up in the Essex Senior

"That was our toughest season. We did not help our cause and made life difficult. It was another setback," said Cunningham, who turned 60 in the autumn.

However, they survived that season and the last two campaigns have seen them desperately unlucky not to go up to the Ryman Premier Division, losing in the play-off final and the playoff semi-final.

The future looks brighter for Harlow and Cunningham is hoping they can finally push on and win promotion from Ryman North this season.

Cunningham added: "It is time for the club to get promoted. I don't mean to gut pressure on the players, but the club is growing.
